BHAVNA UCHIL Mumbai

For the past two years, 2,500 staffers of over 45 aided technical institutes in the State had been fighting for their right to full salary. The State Government has now proposed to release full salaries to these teachers and non-teaching staff.

"Some officials referred the matter to the state's finance minister Sudhir Mugantiwar," said Sudhir Vadvalkar, Principal, Nanded Pharmacy College. "We were invited by the Higher and Technical Education department to discuss the matter," he added.

Vadvalkar was one among five aided college principals who had come to meet Vinod Tawde, Minister for Higher and Technical Education on Monday. "The issue is now resolved. The department has agreed to pay us our full salaries by offline mode upto March 31 and thereafter from April 1 by online mode, which it had refused to do till March this year," Vadvalkar said. "The pending salary will also be paid to us, along with the salary hike revisions that were pending," he added.

The Free Press Journal had reported that a lecturer of an aided pharmacy college in Nanded had gone on a one-day hunger strike (April 2, 2016; Unpaid for eight months, lecturer goes 'hun> gry') This paper had also reported the incident where 40 principals of these institutes from all over Maharashtra, who had come to the Directorate of Technical Education office in the city to press for their full salaries, were left waiting hours, but to no avail. The government has also grants given for operational expenses of these institutes to the tune of 5% of salary expenses of the preceding year of the implementation of 6th pay commission.

619 tribal students miss out on scholarship!

SURESH GOLANI Mumbai

At a time when the government speaks of encouraging more tribals to educate their children and render financial assistance to them. the Mira Bhayandar Municipal Corporation (MBMC) has been apathetic towards this endeavour.

In a shocking revelation, hundreds of poor students belonging to the tribal community in the twin-city, have remained deprived of scholarships since the past six years. To mark the state completing 50 years of establishment, the state government floated the "Golden Jubilee Pre-Matric Scholarship" in 2010. As per the funding pattern of the ambitious programme, tribal students from class I to X whose parents' income is below Rs 1.08 lakh per annum, were entitled to get a scholarship of Rs 1,000 per month. Application forms of the pre-matric scholarship beneficiaries were to be submitted online by principals of educational institutions to the respective project officers of the tribal welfare wing. However, for the past six years not even a single student from this region has been able to avail the scholarship. Blaming the MBMC for its insensitive attitude which had been depriving the poor students of their much-needed scholarships, Balaram Bhoir of Shramjivi Sanghathan has demanded reimbursement of entire six-year-old dues from the civic administration. A charge vehemently denied by the education department. To procure scholarship, duly filled forms along with requisite documents in support of the claims have to be submitted. However, in almost all cases mandatory certificates were missing due to which forms could not be loaded on the official website," claims education officer Suresh Deshmukh. Around 619 students from various tribal hamlets including Maschapada, Versova, Chena, Dachkulpada, Bhablicha Ghat, Mahajan Wadi, Kajupada, Ghodbunder and Kashimira are enrolled with the MBMC-run schools.
